If there is one thing that Bob Schulke really appreciates about his job as Controller, it is the fact that he can utilize every skill he's ever learned from every job he ever did and put it to use at Meristem. Having worked 18 years in the controller and accounting fields, 12 of which were in management, the organizations he worked for were diversely different. From real estate to public transportation to distribution, Bob gained a wide range of knowledge and experience, including IT and finance. He is able to draw upon this experience when looking at ways to improve the many processes and data reporting which keep Meristem operating at its fullest potential.

When Bob is not analyzing data, he loves to fish, hunt, coach his son's basketball team, and train English Springer Spaniels in Field Trials. Bob and his wife, Julie, and their two teenagers live in Plymouth.
